THE WORLD BIOGAS ASSOCIATION INDIA CONGRESS 2026

The 4th World Biogas Association India Congress, held in New Delhi on 8-9 October, 2026, is a high-level summit, bringing together policy and business leaders to accelerate the growth of India's biogas sector at a crucial time for India's energy security.

Senior stakeholders from government, energy networks, financiers, developers, operators, feedstock suppliers and technology providers will share insights into new projects under development and debate the opportunities and challenges facing the sector as it enters this new phase of expansion.

WHY PARTNER

With the urgent need for new CBG facilities to reduce India's reliance on gas imports, and to tackle air pollution in India's cities, the Congress will address the critical issues of feedstock security, plant optimisation, offtake agreements and project finance.

International speakers will share best practices from around the world, and extensive networking opportunities will ensure all attendees meet and forge new business connections with potential partners and clients.

2026 - A Critical Year for Biogas in India

The current conflict in the Middle East has cut India's LPG supplies by 50%, creating an urgent need to boost domestic gas production and reduce reliance on imports.

The economic and human impact of pollution and low air quality in India's cities, largely caused by the burning of crop residues, is driving investment into on-farm biogas plants.

The current 1% blending mandate for compressed biogas in natural and piped natural gas will increase to 5% within the next three years, stimulating greater investment and development of CBG projects across the country.

Additional Market Drivers

Nascent carbon markets could offer an additional revenue stream for biogas project developers and financiers.

The EU's Carbon Border Adjustment Mechanism is creating opportunity for biomethane-fuelled cement, steel and aluminium production. Other cross-sector sources of income include the fast-growing data centre industry as well as the ethanol industry's waste utilisation.

Delegate Category	Strategic Focus	Why They Attend
